Cities, county to share costs in railroad speed suit

BY DENA BISNETTE
Hancock County, Waveland and Bay St. Louis have passed resolutions joining an interlocal agreement fighting Chesapeake Seaboard X Transportation Systems' (CSX) proposal for 50 to 60 m.p.h. railroad speed limits.

The Hancock County Supervisors committed themselves Monday morning to paying a 4.16 percent of the first $100,000 in legal costs of fighting a federal suit filed by the railroad against Gulf Coast municipalities with railroad speed limits.

Board President A.A. Kellar said the board members would be willing to consider committing additional monies later, but did not feel they can make a commitment past the upcoming elections because "if someone different gets elected, they may feel differently about this."

The interlocal agreement only covers the first $100,000. It was formulated last week by a group of representatives from across the coast and will include all three counties and 10 cities if all approve joining.

Only eight, including Waveland, where trains may go 35 m.p.h. under the local ordinance, are actual defendants in the suit. The remainder have no railroad speed limits.

CSX originated the litigation after Jackson County set a five m.p.h.

limit on a 10-mile section of track outside Pascagoula and railroad representatives were unable to convince local entities including Waveland to repeal their speed limits.

The Waveland Board of Aldermen approved the agreement unanimously Monday at a special meeting with some input from the public.

Joseph Colson, a former Louisiana State Civil Defense director, offered the board his assistance in the lawsuit.

He stated that he is now retired but was asked to assist with emergency assistance efforts in Livingston, La., about five years ago after a train derailment resulted in a hazardous chemical spill.

He told the aldermen he has files on that accident which he would make available for the city's defense in the lawsuit if the information is needed.

Also offering assistance was Waveland resident Joseph Servat, who offered to circulate petitions supporting the cities efforts to keep train speeds from increasing.

The Waveland board has expressed particular concern because a section of southern Waveland is cut off from any land evacuation routes by the tracks if a hazardous spill should occur; because that area includes an elementary school; and because

Supervisors to request enlargement of local telephone calling area

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors is asking the Mississippi Public Service Commission to increase the range of local calls that can be made on five of the county's six telephone exchanges.

Beat Two Supervisor and Board President A.A. Kellar said late Tuesday that he has already been contacted by a representative of South Central Bell, who is expected to address the matter at the board's July 6 meeting.

Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner complained Monday that Hancock Countians on the 467 and new 466 Bay St. Louis telephone exchanges can not make as many local calls as those on the 255 exchange, which includes the Standard, Diamondhead and Pass Christian areas, who can call areas such as Gulfport without long distance charges.

At Kellar's request, the 533 and 531 Pearl River exchanges were included in the unanimously passed resolution being sent to the commission.

The fifth exchange, 688, serves NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories and was not discussed.

In addition, a small number of northern Hancock County residents have 798, or Picayune, numbers. That exchange was not included in the resolution.

Ladner said he is concerned because some residents of Hancock County who are on the 467, 466, 531 and 533 exchanges can call each other and a 255 or 452 number in the Pass Christian area locally but other numbers are considered long distance.

People with 255 numbers can call 14 other exchanges, including all those in Hancock County and several in Harrison County, Ladner added.

using a map published in the South Central Bell Mississippi Gulf Coast directory as part of his explanation.

The supervisor stated that he feels that every telephone exchange in the county should have the same privileges.

In other business Monday, the board:

—Received a request from Diamondhead Fire Protection District for an increase in its district tax to four mills, the maximum allowed by law, and agreed to advertise the board's intent to approve the increase;

—Reappointed Michael Shiyon to BaySide Park Fire Protection District's board of commissioners; —Accepted price quotes on bunker gear for Clemont Harbor Volunteer Fire Department;

—Agreed to employ James Brewer to construct restrooms for Leetown Community Center;

—Approved use of county jail trustees and purchase of paint to repaint signs and playground equipment at Beat Four Ballpark in Kiln;

—Authorized issuance of a work order for repairs to Beach Road;

—Adopted a personnel policy for county road crew employees as recommended by County Maintenance Superintendent Bill Johnson and amended by the supervisors;

—Agreed to close the Hancock County Courthouse and Courthouse

Annex Monday in observance of the July 4 holiday, although the board will conduct its regularly scheduled meeting that day;

—Agreed to provide $5,000 for Gulf Coast Women's Center, which provides shelter for battered women and children;

—Approve Ladner's request that a delegation of board members go to Washington, D.C., to try to have the completion date of a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers shore protection study for Hancock County changed, and —Went on record asking the State Highway Department to place a sign on Interstate 10 pointing out that the route to Bay St. Louis is three miles shorter for drivers using Highway 607 than for drivers using Highway 603, in an effort to reduce the amount of traffic on 603.

The board's Monday meeting begins at 9 a.m. in the Hancock County Courthouse.

Port Bienville industry gets Navy contract

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Ryan Marine, Inc., a shipbuilding and repair business in Port Bienville Industrial Park, is the second-park business to receive government construction contracts.

Ryan Marine was recently awarded a contract by the United States Navy to build a Towed Array Support Barge. The vessel will be utilized at the Trident Refit Facility in Kings Bay, Ga.

Completion date for the project is scheduled for late December.

Ralph Ryan of Ryan Marine said a dollar value for the project is not available at this time because of the possibility of additional related contracts.

Already the project has created six new jobs, he said.

Ryan Marine has been doing repair work on both government and commercial vessels for the past two years in Pearl Harbor. The company offers a wide variety of services including new construction of all types of marine vessels up to 310 feet in length.

But the Navy-Trident project represents the first government new construction contract.

Planned expansion to existing facilities will allow Ryan to undertake more such new construction projects in the future.

Port Bienville Industries has also completed major contracts with the United States Coast Guard.

Hancock County Port and Harbor Director Harold Olsen says he is happy to see the local businesses becoming involved in the government industry.

"There are billions of dollars in government contracts being awarded annually and this business can supplement the downturn in the other kinds of boat building," Olsen said.

"I always encourage our industries to get involved in this kind of venture because of the amount of dollars it can bring to the local community," he added.

Olsen also said it is a good indication of the spirit of cooperation between the industries in the park, that Ryan Marine employed ConTech Inc. to do work in preparation for the government contract.

Shrimp remains should not be discarded in public dumpster

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The public is being requested to dispose of seafood remains in the proper manner and not place them in the public dumpsters.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz said the dumping of shrimp heads in the city's public dumpsters has become a problem.

"This is a chronic problem we have had during shrimp season but it is a violation of a city ordinance," he said.

This has particularly been a problem with the dumpster on North Beach Boulevard, he added.

The ordinance which prohibits this action outlines a maximum penalty for the violation of a $500 fine and 90 days in jail.

This is not the purpose for the public dumpsters and all seafood remains should be wrapped up securely and placed outside with household garbage, Frankiewicz said.

Anyone seeing another person indiscriminately dumping shrimp remains in a public garbage dumpster is asked to report the incident to the Bay St. Louis Police Department, 467-9221 or city hall, 467-9092.

Bay city council okays "permanent" repairs to Carroll Avenue sewer line

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
In a special meeting Tuesday, the Bay St. Louis City Council authorized city officials to proceed with sewer repairs on Carroll Avenue.

Bay Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz Jr. told the council both the trunk line and individual customer service lines needed to be replaced.

Most of the problems with these lines are caused by two factors, soil conditions and the pipe itself, which is an "old clay pipe and very brittle," he added.

There have already been seven repairs to the section of the line which runs between Dunbar and Necaise avenues, Frankiewicz said.

He estimated the cost to the city for these repairs to have run as high as $100,000.

Frankiewicz said this line which was installed in the mid-'60's should have lasted 40 years.

"There are some sewer lines which were installed much earlier and are still working," he said.

The shifting sand condition in the area is the major cause of the problems but lining the existing line should correct the problem.

This is the cheapest of four repair options but also appears to be the best method in terms of disrupting service and traffic, he said.

The options ranged from completely rebuilding the line at a cost of $240,000 to lining the pipe at an estimated cost of $40,000.

"This method is the permanent solution we have been able to come up with and funding is already included in the sewer repair budget," he said.

The council also approved an Interlocal Cooperation Agreement for coast-wide action regarding the regulation of speed trains can travel.

In this agreement, officials from the cities of Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Pass Christian, Long Beach, Gulfport, Biloxi, Ocean Springs, Gautier, Pascagoula and Moss Point as well as Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties will work together to prevent the increase of train speeds in the area.

Officials also agreed to pay a pro-rata share of costs up to $100,000 for legal fees in fighting the increased railroad speeds.

Frankiewicz said he strongly recommended the council adopt the agreement to show a united front opposing the increased speed and to insure a city will be able to retain the power to regulate a train's speed through the city limits.

The Bay St. Louis share of the pro rata costs will be less than $3,000.

Frankiewicz also told the council the agreement will be void unless all parties adopt the document and it may be terminated at anytime by a majority of the members.

Incumbent seeks reelection as West District constable

West District Constable Gary Bennett issued the following statement in connection with his bid for reelection.

"I, the incumbent constable of District II, am seeking reelection on Aug. 4, 1987, to serve as constable for the west half of Hancock County.

"I have had the honor of serving as Beat II constable for the past four years and hope to serve many more.

"Since I have been constable I have joined the Mississippi and National Constable Associations.

"I am presently on the Southern Board of Directors of the Mississippi Constable Association.

"I have had a part in getting the education bill past that will go into effect in January of 1988.

"The Mississippi Constable Association also fought against a bill introduced in 1985 which would have abolished the office of constable in the state of Mississippi.

Thanks to Senator Martin Smith of Poplarville, the bill was tabled and then abolished.

"Some 115 constables, of which I was included, went to Jackson during legislative sessions to fight the bill with the senator's help.

"Since then Mississippi Constable Association has hired a lawyer to lobby for us and keep us abreast of legislative matters that are of concern to us and our office.

Attorney general seeks governor's position

Attorney General Ed Pittman has formerly announced his candidacy for the office of governor of the State of Mississippi.

"I have the experience, the knowledge and the desire to work with the people of our state and in moving Mississippi forward economically and socially.

"No candidate will offer more experience or know-how than I can offer having served as a member of the State Senate for eight years, as state treasurer, as secretary of state and as attorney general. No candidate will exceed me in effort, honesty or integrity," Pittman stated.

"I have a wealth of governmental knowledge and a proven record of accomplishment. I majored in government and history at the University of Southern Mississippi and have a law degree from the University of Mississippi, all of which assist me in knowing what the government can and should do for the people of our state," the candidate continued.

"I know our people and our problems, and I am firmly fixed on our promise. Mississippi must have an attitude that we can lift ourselves economically and socially.

ED PITTMAN

Mississippi must have an attitude of success.

"My campaign will be one with a positive approach with affirmative, positive and specific suggestions of what we can do to improve the economic activities in our state," he added.

"First and foremost, as simple as it may sound, the governor of this state has to take the chamber of commerce approach. He has got to promote Mississippi at every opportunity, brag on Mississippi on every occasion and present to the outside world the successes that our good people and our good state have enjoyed," Pittman said.

"I have invited all persons to join our campaign and pledge that as governor I will be active in all state endeavors and open to all suggestions and to all persons. I will be quick to help and slow to criticize. I will be dynamic with ideas and insistent on our best effort.

"I solicit every citizen's vote, advice, suggestions, support and prayer throughout the campaign. In return, I pledge four years of diligent and honest service to the people of this state," the candidate promises.

This weekend many residents as well as visitors will be on our waterways doing such things as fishing, skiing, or just boat riding.

We would like to caution everyone to please be careful on the water and make sure your craft contains the proper equipment.

Game and Fish officers will be patrolling waters and checking boats to make sure they have the proper equipment.

Something Gilbert Gayout pointed out to us this week was the fact that the Department of Wildlife Conservation shall have the right to designate one day per year as "Free Fishing Day" and on July 4 each year, no fishing license shall be required for sport fishing.

As most of you know, fishing licenses expire on June 30 each year and it is now time to renew fishing licenses.

We hope all fishermen will catch their limit.

As we have mentioned before, there will be many functions scheduled for the July 4th weekend.

Among some of the many things scheduled to happen are:

—The Annual Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo continues through Sunday.

—Our Lady of the Gulf's Annual Crab Festival is set for July 3, 4, and 5.

—St. Rose de Lima Catholic Church's Annual Fair on July 3 and 4.

—Noon on July 4th, the annual Garden Island community's Boat Parade.

—The Clermont Harbor July 4th parade is scheduled for 1 p.m. on Saturday.

—A boat parade is scheduled for the Jourdan River Shores Community at 2 p.m. Saturday.

—At 2 p.m. on Sunday the Gulf Coast Fishermen's Association has scheduled the Annual Blessing of the Fleet at Bayou Cadet.

So as you can see these are just a few of the many happenings in our area over the weekend.

We hope everyone will have a safe and happy July 4th weekend.

JULY 4TH

INDEPENDENCE DAY

Patrol's holiday enforcement effort to include stickers

JACKSON—At the end of June, more than 37,000 drivers licenses and approximately 120,000 automobile inspection stickers will expire. Automobile owners and drivers should pay special attention to renewing these documents because the Mississippi Highway Patrol will set up driver's license checkpoints throughout the state as part of its Fourth of July enforcement efforts.

"It is obvious to us that the trend in accidents, fatalities and injuries we now have means that this agency must enforce all traffic laws as diligently and firmly as possible," said James L. Roberts Jr., commissioner of public safety.

"A licensed driver in a properly inspected vehicle is safer to have on the highways than an unlicensed driver in an uninspected vehicle. The renewal of both these documents should be important to every driver."

"Many times during the inspection process, it is revealed that the vehicle has only one headlight or no taillight."

"These vehicles are difficult to see at night and are unsafe for the driver and every motorist that comes in contact with that vehicle. This is only one example of why an annual vehicle inspection is important. There are several more," Roberts said.

"Special attention and emphasis will be given to enforcement of the posted speed limits and motorists are urged to be mindful of the posted limit wherever they may be driving, whether on a city street, county road or state or federal highway."

"The law does not permit any tolerance and speed limits shall be rigidly enforced by this agency. Emphasis will also be given to enforcement of the driving under the influence (DUI) law and all other traffic laws," the commissioner added.

Col. D. D. Cvitanovich, chief of the Highway Patrol, said drivers license checkpoints will be set up in some heavily traveled areas of the state during the 78-hour Independence Day observance.

"When we have manned these kinds of checkpoints in the past, our troopers usually find some drivers under the influence of drugs or alcohol. Intoxicated drivers will, of course, be cited," the chief said.

"Expired drivers licenses or inspection stickers are considered non-hazardous violations but they are important because they reflect the safety consciousness of the driver," Cvitanovich said.

He said that in his opinion, "Those drivers and vehicle owners who are attentive enough to stay current with their licenses and inspection stickers use that same type attentiveness while behind the wheel."

"Drivers who are concerned enough not to break one law usually display that same respect for all laws," Cvitanovich said.

LT. Col. Donald O'Callan, assistant chief of the Highway Patrol, said, "As a safety reminder to the motoring public, let's make this Fourth a safe and fatality-free holiday."

"Remember, if you must drink, do not drive. Abide by the lawful speed limit, avoid taking unsafe chances, drive defensively and cross your heart with a seat belt," O'Callan added.

The Highway Patrol has scheduled 16 extra details during the three-day Fourth of July holiday when 98 officers will work an additional 768 man-hours as part of the ongoing effort by the patrol and the Governor's Highway Safety Program to deter speed law violations.

A holiday observance schedule issued by the National Safety Council has the Fourth of July holiday extending from 6 p.m. Thursday, July 2 until midnight Sunday, July 5.

State government employees in Mississippi will observe the holiday from 6 p.m. Friday, July 3 until midnight Monday, July 6.

The Fourth of July observance was the second deadliest of the six major holidays observed in 1986 when 11 people were killed in traffic related crashes. State troopers arrested 195 drivers on DUI charges during last year's observance.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—Is Mississippi finally going to have its first million vote turnout in the Aug. 4 governor's race?

Four years ago when some observers, including this one, thought that the vote might hit one million in the Democratic first primary, darn if the voters didn't come through with a disappointing turnout of 628,000. That was some 65,000 fewer than the 1980 presidential race.

In the 1983 runoff, the figure fell off to 773,000 and then dropped even further in the bizarre November general election to 742,737.

Since then, however, Mississippi voters have been inching toward the one million mark. They came up with 939,000 votes in the 1984 presidential race, and set an alltime record of 952,240 in the U.S. Senate race that year.

The secretary of state's office, which keeps voter registration figures furnished by circuit clerks in each county, showed a total voter registration statewide of 1,043,191 as of last October.

Unfortunately, that is not an accurate figure. The reason is voter rolls in most counties have not been regularly purged, and only a few counties have field re-registrations in recent years.

As a result, the voter lists reported by circuit clerks contain an unknown number of "phantom" voters who have long been dead or have moved away.

A classic example is Marshall County, where the circuit clerk for several years has been trying to get a re-registration approved by the board of supervisors. Marshall county has a population of around 29,000, while names of almost 24,000 persons are on the voter rolls.

Significantly, in every county where there has been a re-registration the past few years, the number of voters after re-registration is less than shown on the books beforehand. In fact, the statewide total in the secretary of state's office went down 26,000 between 1984 and 1986 as a result of re-registrations.

There is at least some hope that Mississippi might finally get a more accurate figure on how many qualified voters there are on the rolls statewide.

Under a 1983 law, every county is mandated starting in 1988 to delete from its rolls names of voters who have not voted in the previous four years.

Special care is provided by the law that no one will be removed who should not be removed. Each voter taken off will be notified by mail before being removed and given 30 days to respond. Even then, removed names will be put on a side list with registration books.

In any case, Mississippi is believed to have in the vicinity of 1.5 million qualified voters right now. An estimated one million are white voters and roughly 500,000 are black voters, based on best available information, since voter rolls are not supposed to reflect race.

Last fall, the Joint Center for Political Studies in Washington, the best repository of information on black voting, estimated that 477,000 black voters were registered in Mississippi. That's up from the estimated 350,000 black vote four years ago.

Drives to get blacks registered to vote before local political races this summer were underway in Bolivar and Marshall counties, and several other black-majority counties are expected to have drives.

There's also some hope for a faster tabulation of the vote statewide this year because the number of counties still using paper, hand-counted ballots is now down to 35. That means 47 counties will have some kind of automatic voting devices in use for the primaries in August.

By January 1, 1989 under the new election law, all counties will have to have voting machines or some type of automatic vote recording system.

Certainly the lack of excitement thus far about the governor's race and the high percentage of "undecided" voters shown by the polls does not bode well that this will be a heavy voting year.

"It really looks dismal," said Constance Slaughter-Harvey, head of the elections section of the secretary of state's office, who has been sampling voter interest around the state.

Meantime, the secretary of state's office has been holding training workshops for party officials and election commissioners around the state to fully acquaint them with operation of the new Election Reform Law.

As the Delta Air Lines commercial says, they'll be ready if you are, when election time comes.

Tourism Task Force

Reports on Potential
The Department of Economic Development's Task Force on Tourism recently made its report and recommendations regarding ways to increase and improve one of Mississippi's largest industries—that of tourism.

In 1985, it is estimated that tourism expenditures in Mississippi were $1 billion, generating $61.8 million in local and state taxes. Just think of the various tourist attractions in your community and how they attract visitors to your area. Throughout Mississippi, we have a large number of major tourist attractions, but we also have a large number of attractions that would be of interest to visitors to our state and to our own people, if we made them known.

The 16-member tourism task force is trying to do just that. The task force, appointed by Economic Development Director Jerry McDonald, recommended greater commitments from both the state in financial resources for the Department of Economic Development and private industry. The group also recommended the establishment of more area tourism councils to help in the promotion of the "good news" about Mississippi and local areas.

Private sector cooperation was a vital part of the recommendations, including joint efforts on advertising programs, hospitality services, and image improvement. Each community needs to realize the value of tourism in attracting the industries necessary for economic growth and development.

The task force took note of the value of the Mississippi Ambassadors program that has attracted more than 6,100 members in the six months since its beginning. This program, operated through the Governor's Office and the Department of Economic Development, is working to bring an awareness to the assets Mississippi has to offer.

The cooperative tone of the task force report was also reflected in the recommendation to offer tourism training in our colleges and universities. Thus, through the combination of state and local government, private sector and education institutions, the industry participants have seen the way their own industry can grow.

Waveland resident commends departments which aided in fire

Letter to the Editor
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Gentlemen:

I would like to take this opportunity to compliment the fire department and police department of Waveland and also Fire Marshall Jay Marsh.

They responded quickly to the problem of my home burning on Sandy Street.

They all were there in a second and were very cooperative.

I was in a state of shock but they helped me a lot.

The city should be proud of them and everyone in that field.

It is good to know there are some people you can depend on.

Keep the good work up. It's great, we need it.

Clermont sets July 4 parade

BY DENA BISNETTE
Clermont Harbor's eighth annual Fourth of July Parade will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Joe Levy residence on Poinsetta Street.
Grand marshals for this year's event will be Robert Peterson and Skip Barrett.
According to Myrtis Broussard of Garcia's Grocery which is the traditional disbanding location for the annual parade, the event was established in 1980 and usually features two grand marshals.
"We try to have one from Clermont Harbor and one from the city," she explained.

The parade is sponsored by the New Orleans-based Old Forrester Marching and Social Club, which includes a number of Clermont Harbor residents.
"It draws lots of participants. We had 300 or 400 people here at the store last year and the crowd has been getting bigger every year," Broussard said.
The event is free with food, drinks and souvenirs available.
Broussard said the parade route begins at the Levy home, proceeds down Poinsetta Street to the Gaynard home of the event's first grand marshal, W.J. Howard, then down Railroad Avenue to Bordages Street and Clermont Harbor Boulevard.

The parade turns on Clermont Harbor Boulevard and goes on Iola Street back to Beach Road, turns back onto Bordages and proceeds down Clermont Harbor Boulevard to Forrest, then to Garcia's Grocery.
The parade usually ends at about 5:30 or 6 p.m. and includes at least one band, Broussard added.
One year, a double-decker bus was brought for July 4, but has not been used again because streets in Clermont Harbor are so narrow, she said.

Past grand marshals in addition to Howard have included Floyd Garcia and Alvin Ladner, 1981; Monroe James and Snooky Dugar, 1982; Harold Garcia and James Gibbs, 1983; Edward T. Krieger and Earl Pradot, 1984; James Thornton and John Anthony, 1985; and Dutch Grundmeyer and Lester Haverly Jr., 1986.
Broussard said the public is invited to attend in addition to Clermont Harbor residents.

Secretary of State urges residents to register

Mississippi Secretary of State Dick Molpus reports this is the last week for residents to register if they were going to vote in the August 4 Democratic or Republican Party First Primary elections.
"If people are to participate fully in their government, they must be registered to vote," Molpus stated.
Molpus said that under state law

the final registration date is Sunday, July 5.
However, circuit clerks' offices are not open on Sunday.
While some registrars may have their offices open on Saturday, July 4, many circuit clerks will elect to be closed after Friday, July 3.
In explaining that an estimated 1.6 million Mississippians are already registered, Molpus noted that since the 1983 elections four years ago, nearly 180,000 additional Mississippians have become 18 years of age.

Molpus said, "While I would hope that all young people register to vote and become full citizens, I feel certain that many have not."
Molpus emphasized the significance of young people's vote, explaining that only 23,000 votes separated the two leading contenders, Evelyn Gandy and Bill Allain, in the 1983 Democratic First Primary.

"Let me urge as strongly as possible that all Mississippians exercise their right to register to vote. Only then can they choose the government leaders that make decisions that affect all our lives," Molpus concluded.

In addition, local groups will provide musical entertainment.

No one objects to zoning changes

BY DENA BISNETTE
No one has objected to proposed changes in Waveland's zoning map. At a public hearing on Monday, only one person appeared and he only wanted to be sure the zoning of his own property had not changed.
According to Planning and Zoning Board Chairman Charles Dixon, the proposed changes have occurred since the previous map was completed in 1971, after the city's last annexation. Most have occurred within the last five years.

The city's land use maps are also being updated.
The board approved the changes for recommendation to the board of aldermen, which meets at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

In other business, the board agreed to approve a variance for Mrs. Gentry Davis, who owns a 300 by 300 foot piece of property at Hogan and Tabor Streets.
The variance will allow the property to be subdivided, with a 100 by 100 foot section to be used for a second residence.

The board also agreed to send a letter of noncompliance to the owner of a business being operated in a commercial district.
The next zoning board meeting is set for 5 p.m. Monday at city hall.

Mississippi livestock dealer fined $1,700 by Federal Court

WASHINGTON—Billy Van Norman, McComb, has been fined $1,700 by a Federal court for operating as a livestock dealer without being bonded and registered with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The USDA official said the penalties were ordered in a default judgment when Van Norman failed to answer federal civil charges of doing business as a livestock dealer without a bond.

Calvin W. Watkins, deputy administrator of USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration, said Van Norman was also permanently enjoined from operating without bond by the U.S. District Court at Jackson.

Watkins said Van Norman, who still has not filed a bond, bought livestock in southern Mississippi and eastern Louisiana.

The permanent injunction was issued by the court to insure future compliance with the Packers and Stockyards (P&S) Act.

The P&S Act is an antitrust, fair trade practice, and payment protection law. It is designed to maintain integrity in the marketing of livestock, poultry and meat, and economic law and order in the marketplace.

VETERINARIAN Connie Clemons Chevis checks her dog Mindy on an examining table in her new office in the former New Woman Medical Center and Farmer's Home Administration building on US-90. Chevis, an Auburn University School of Veterinary Medicine graduate starting a private practice after working with a clinic in Escatawpa, plans to open her business at the end of July. She specializes in the care of small and exotic animals and plans to include among her services various types of surgery, limited boarding, pharmacy and a 10 percent discount for senior citizens. Chevis stated that she feels being located in a building that previously housed a controversial business will not be detrimental to her practice. "In a way, I have been able to help the community because the previous tenant was so controversial and because if somebody else didn't take over the lease they would have been here for two more years." Severe penalties imposed for fraudulent tax returns Awaiting an audit and anxious to come up with documentation for deliberately inflated charitable deductions claimed on her tax return, the taxpayer alters cancelled checks made out to her church, substituting higher dollar amounts.

Enraged at the seemingly ever-increasing bite Federal taxes are taking out of his paycheck, the factory worker pays $40 for mail-order ministerial "credentials" and "donates" his paycheck to his new "church," whose only activity is to pay his living expenses. He then deducts his living expenses as a charitable contribution to his "church."

These individuals have one thing in common: they have crossed the line that distinguishes negligence from tax fraud. Depending on the particulars of each case, at best they may face stiff civil penalties and, at worst, criminal charges in Federal court.

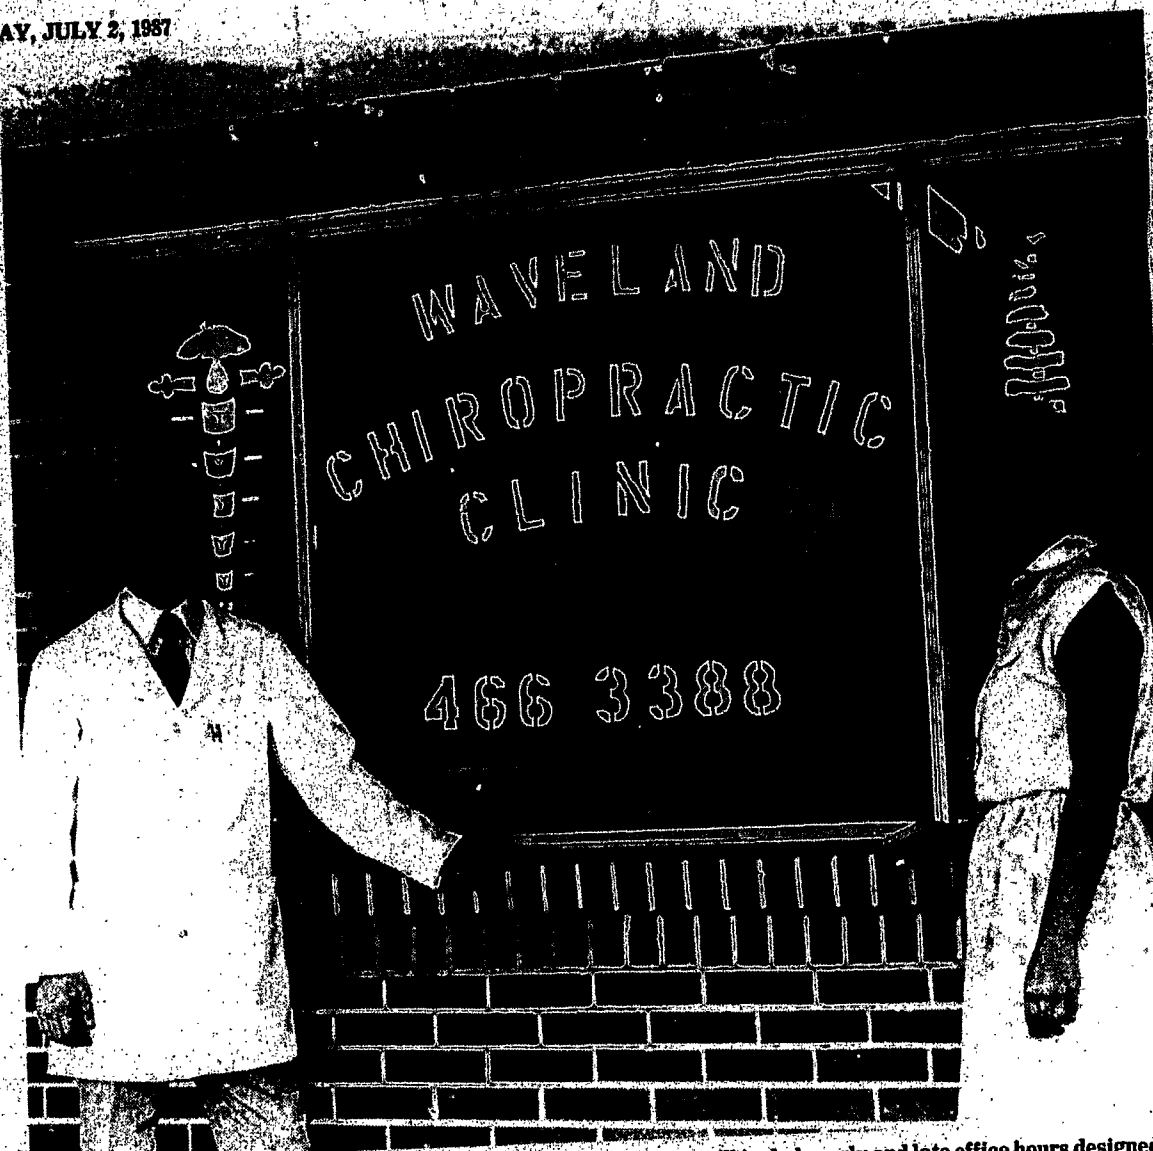

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 provides for a civil penalty of 75 percent of an underpayment attributable to fraud. If any portion of an underpayment is found to be fraudulent, the entire underpayment will be regarded as fraudulent unless the taxpayer can prove otherwise. In addition, there is a penalty equal to 50 percent of the interest payable on the portion of the underpayment due to fraud, the IRS explained. IRS defines fraud as the deliberate, conscious, purposeful intent to evade tax. The new penalty provisions apply to returns due after December 31, 1986.

Fraud can take place either through action or lack of action, IRS noted. Examples include filing false returns, altering documents presented to an IRS official or failing to file required tax returns.

The 75-percent civil fraud penalty may be assessed against a taxpayer regardless of whether or not criminal charges are made, IRS said. If a taxpayer is convicted of criminal wrongdoing, the full amount of additional taxes and interest is assessed, as well as the 75-percent civil fraud penalty, in addition to any fines and/or imprisonment that may be imposed by the court.

IRS also explained that, although the normal statute of limitations for assessing additional taxes is three years, there is no statute of limitations when the underpayment of tax liability is due to fraud.

WAVELAND CHIROPRACTIC CLINIC has opened in the mini-mall across US-90 from Take One Video and McDonald's. Dr. Timothy Houseal, left, inspects his recently painted office window with his wife and office manager, Kathy Houseal. Dr. Houseal, a graduate of Palmer College of Chiropractic who previously practiced with Smith Chiropractic Clinic in Gulfport, said he plans to offer "healing for the total man" and that his services will include early and late office hours designed to accommodate working people. The hours are 7 a.m. until noon and 2 p.m. until 6 p.m. Mondays, Tuesday, Thursdays and Fridays and 7 a.m. until noon on Wednesdays. He said he has found that he is the first chiropractor to open an office in Waveland. More information is available at 466-3388. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

POST OFFICE POTPOURRI

By TOM HILL
Postmaster,
Bay St. Louis

In case you haven't noticed lately, our new facility is really beginning to 'shape up.' And, as we get closer to move-in time, we are getting more calls for particulars on what our operations will be. Many of you are interested in renting a post office box there. I'm glad to say that sufficient boxes will be available to satisfy the needs of our community for many years to come.

We are going to have over 2,500 boxes installed, and there will be five sizes available. The box rents will vary from $22 to $128 per year, depending on the size. We are already accepting applications for boxes at the new facility. You may apply for a box by completing a PS Form 1093, Application for Post Office Box, available at any post office. Then send it to the Postmaster,

Bay St. Louis, MS 39520-9998. Or you may wish to fill out the application in person, at which time one of our employees can verify that all necessary items are completed. The box numbers will begin with number 2001 and there will be a unique ZIP Code (39521) assigned to the boxes at the new facility. Applicants will be notified as soon as possible when they may make payment for box rent. At the time of payment, their box number will be assigned and their key will be issued. This procedure should help reduce some of the problems that will no doubt be experienced in the activation of the new facility. If there are any questions regarding these procedures, please call us at 467-6393 and we will be glad to assist you.

NASA selects Coast Guard officer for astronaut program

MILITARY FAMILY—U.S. Air Force Airman William P. Flanders Jr., left, and his brother, U.S. Navy Fireman Apprentice David Steven Flanders Jr., joined their respective branches recently after graduating high school in London, England. The Flanders brothers, sons of Master Sergeant David Flanders Sr. and Mrs. Francine Corcoran Flanders, completed high school in England where their father is attached to the 17th Reconnaissance Wing, Royal Air Force, Alconbury, U.K. as a representative of the USAF Strategic Air Command. They are grandsons of Mrs. Una Corcoran South of Clermont Harbor; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Flanders of Metairie, La., and the late Frank J. Corcoran.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration recently selected Lieutenant Commander Bruce E. Melnick, a Coast Guard officer, as one of 15 astronaut candidates for the space shuttle program. Secretary of Transportation Elizabeth Hanford Dole, the Coast Guard's top official, said, "I am delighted with the NASA selection. This marks the first time a Coast Guard officer has been chosen to participate in the space program. Lieutenant Commander Melnick is an outstanding officer who has received two Distinguished Flying Crosses. He deserves the honor." NASA selected LCDR Melnick to be a mission specialist candidate. He will report to NASA's Johnson Space Center in Houston, Texas, on Aug. 17 to begin a year-long program of training and evaluation. Once the candidates successfully complete this portion of the program, they begin training assignments that ultimately lead to selection as one of the members of a Space Shuttle flight crew. Melnick, 37, is currently operations officer at the U.S. Coast Guard Air Station at Traverse City, Mich. He is a 1972 graduate of the U.S.

Coast Guard Academy and has a master of science degree in aeronautical systems from the University of West Florida. Melnick is a graduate of Clearwater High School, Clearwater, Fla., and the son of Edward S. Melnick of Ft. White, Fla.

A LEADER SETS THE PACE

"LET'S TALK"

Education:
Half way home and a long

On a cold, cloudy January morning in 1985 I walked briskly down the long hill of High Street toward the Coliseum. Thoughts were swirling around in my head as I viewed the mass of humanity standing below me huddled in the cold with signs displaying emotional slogans of frustration held high above their heads.

I was apprehensive. How had we come to this? What were the reasons that brought such a dedicated group of professionals to the Capitol City? In such a crowd, how was I to find the teachers from my district and help support their efforts.

I did find our teachers and we walked back up the long hill to the Capitol together. The issue at hand was to focus attention on an already made commitment to fund salary increases for our teachers.

The education reform act of 1982 had so stated the increase and now it was up to us to find the means for providing the monies. We all knew that it would be difficult to find the fiscal resources but we were also aware of the desperate need to retain our educational system's dedicated and qualified teachers.

With education as a top priority, somehow we found the revenues. In the past four years, Mississippi has increased teachers salaries $4,500 a year.

The legislature has committed itself to much more. We have implemented and funded kindergartens. Through constitutional amendment, put to you the voters, the Educational Trust Fund was passed. With passage of the uniform school law, we have put all state school districts on an equal and strengthened compulsory attendance codes for school age children.

It will take time to assess the value of these achievements but time will prove that we have taken steps in the right direction.

As I walked hand and hand with my teachers up the hill that January morning I wasn't sure just how far our resources would take us. The commitment had been made and somehow the resources were found.

The Southern Growth Policy Board said it so nicely, "We are halfway home and a long way to go." We have come a long way, but we cannot rest on our laurels. We are carrying into the future a heavy burden of past mistakes. Whatever we have failed at yesterday can be turned into success tomorrow. What we have lost can be restored. What is dreamed can be made real. But advancement will prove to be a challenge and expensive. Today's investments are to earn prosperity for tomorrow.

Together we can run the course to the finish line. As your senator representing District 47, I promise to continue to support you as we climb the long hill toward better education. With your help, we will be successful.

HOME REMODELED—These pictures show before and after conditions of the BaySide Park home of Joyce and Henry Bauer. The Gulf Coast Community Action Agency pooled resources from several areas to help the Bauers get a roof and walls on their home which was formerly covered only with "tar paper." Bauer began seeking help through the weatherization program after having serious problems with her utility bill. Because the weatherization costs for the Bauer home exceeded the limit, the agency had to gather resources for the work from several areas. The agency was also able to provide doors for the house which formerly only had screen doors. The improvements were made possible by the use of two grants and private contributions of labor and discounts on building materials, according to Pat Harvey, Hancock County coordinator of the Community Action Agency.

Did you know there was once a man who led the major leagues in home runs one season—yet never hit one ball out of the park or over the fence all year... His name was Tommy Leach and he played for the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1902... He led the National League in homers that year—but every one of his home runs was an inside-the-park homer... He never hit one over the fence—yet he wound up being the home run champion.

Wild cranberries were eaten raw, or cooked with honey or maple sugar by the Indians, also dried for winter use, long before the first settlers arrived on our shores.

Cranberries were probably the first native American fruit or berry eaten in Europe, because of their keeping quality on long voyages, and were also a boon to sailors as a defense against scurvy on those long voyages, history tells us.

And, cranberries are still an American favorite today - what would the Thanksgiving turkey be without its accompanying cranberry sauce or relish or whatever?

So, appropriately enough in light of history, a delicious cranberry dessert is first place winner in the recent recipe contest sponsored by the Friendship Oak Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, as part of the observance of the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution. Joe Pilet of Bay St. Louis was coordinator of the local celebration.

The dessert is one which the winner, Odile R. Carter, 218½ N. Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis submitted. It's made with fresh raw cranberries, which, of course, are not in season just now, so whole frozen or canned berries may be substituted. Here's:

PRIZE WINNER'S
CRANBERRY PUDDING WITH BUTTER SAUCE

2 cups sifted flour
1 cup plus 1 tsp. sugar
3 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
2 cups whole raw cranberries
1 cup milk
3 Tbsp. butter or margarine

BUTTER SAUCE

½ cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
¾ cup cream

For the pudding: Sift together the flour, sugar, baking powder, and salt. Stir in the cranberries, milk and melted butter. Pour into well oiled 8-inch square pan and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for 45 minutes. Serve warm with butter sauce.

For the sauce: Melt the butter (you need the real thing for this sauce) and add the brown sugar and cream. Bring to a rolling boil, and cook a few minutes until the sauce thickens to the consistency you prefer.

When using frozen or canned whole berries, allow for any sugar used in processing and adjust accordingly.

That other staple of colonial cuisine, also from the Indians and a favorite to this day, was, of course, maize or "Indian Corn," which has been called the "greatest gift of the New World." The early settlers had found the Indians cultivating corn, and soon followed suit. In fact, historians tell us that the colonists wouldn't have lasted long without cornmeal!

They first used it for making breads and stuffing the abundant wild fowl, then went on to experiment with other dishes.

Cornmeal mush, called "Indian Pudding" or "Hasty Pudding" by the colonists, was a staple at table, as were the breads and fried breads and cakes.

Our second prize winner turned to cornmeal for her entry - cornmeal cakes or "Indian Slapjacks." Here's the recipe sent in by Mrs. W. W. Anderson, 4482 Kendall Circle, Gulfport. Here's:

INDIAN SLAPJACKS
1 quart milk
1 pint Indian meal (cornmeal)
4 eggs
4 spoons flour
a little salt

Beat all together, bake on a griddle or fry in dry pan or bake in a pan rubbed with suet, lard or butter.

You may wish to adjust amounts of cornmeal and milk for thicker batter, as I do.

Simple, but tasty. There were many variations on this theme, such as those for Indian Pudding, some plain, some with the addition of molasses or such.

Thanks to all those who sent in recipes, ranging from blueberry tea cake to blackeyed peas and okra to grillades and gravy, even to cooking

Hancock association to sponsor fleet blessing

The Hancock County Fishermen's Association will sponsor the traditional blessing of the fleet at Bayou Cadet in Hancock County at 2 p.m. Sunday.

"We generally have between 40 and 60 boats participating," association president Ronnie Ferrell said. Most Coast communities conduct their fleet blessings at the opening of shrimp season, he said.

"We got away from that about five years ago. We chose the 4th of July weekend, just before white shrimp season opens."

Seven prizes will be awarded for boat decorations, including first, second and third places for boats less than 40 feet long; first, second and third places for boats 40 feet or longer; and one overall winner. Monsignor James McGough, of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church will conduct the blessing ceremony. The Omega will serve as the blessing boat.

County starts on E911, choice on primary ballot

BY DENA BISNETTE

Hancock County voters will have a chance to decide whether they want enhanced 911 emergency service in the August primaries, but public officials are already looking into implementation procedures.

Enhanced 911 will be the only special election on the Democratic and Republican primaries Aug. 4, Hancock County Election Commission Secretary Charles Gottschalk said.

The local referendum was placed with the primary elections because there are 10 state resolutions on the ballot for the Nov. 3 general election.

A group of public officials discussed the emergency service with four South Central Bell representatives in a meeting arranged by Bay-Waveland-Hancock County Civil Defense Director Robert Boudin.

In addition to civil defense, the meeting included representatives or members of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department; Waveland Police Department; Bay St. Louis Police Department; Hancock-Harrison County District Attorney's Office, several fire departments including Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Diamondhead and the BaySide Park volunteers; and Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

Also attending were Hancock County-Waveland Fire Marshal Jay Marsh, Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. and Hancock County Chancery Clerk E. Michael Necaise.

South Central Bell representative Dinah Riley explained that the enhanced 911 system presents several advantages over the regular 911 system and showed the group a videotape of an ABC television 20-20 segment explaining the differences.

The film pointed out that the regular 911 system requires a caller to provide a location before a law enforcement agency, ambulance or other emergency service is able to respond.

The enhanced system still requires the caller to dial the same 911 number, but provides a computer read-out of the address from which the call is made, even if that location is a public telephone.

In addition, the name of the person whose phone is being used is provided where applicable and a telephone number is given in case communication is interrupted and must be reestablished.

South Central Bell Communications Consultant Steve Brown, who is helping with implementation of the Harrison County System, explained that calls can be received by a single public safety agency and routed by the dispatcher there to the proper agency, or several computer terminals can be set up at various agencies.

Hancock County already using one central dispatching system with its 11 fire departments, Waveland Fire Chief David Garcia said. All of the dispatching is handled through the Bay St. Louis Fire Department's dispatcher at the station on Old Spanish Trail.

According to Mike Church, South Central Bell systems designer, the number of answering points that will be supplied with enhanced 911 computer data bases has not yet been determined.

However, once those answering points are established, South Central Bell will provide special training for the dispatchers.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors had originally planned to try to obtain a local and private bill to get the service, which Riley said will probably add about 50 to 55 cents each month to the individual residential customer's telephone bill.

The local and private bill was not obtained this year, but according to Roy Ainsworth, who handles legislative affairs for South Central Bell, the board is authorized to set up enhanced 911 service in general legislation passed this year.

That legislation enables the board to create an emergency communications district consisting of all the territory within the county, but unlike most special districts, the board will not collect the tax directly.

In this case, the revenue will be collected by the service supplier, which is South Central Bell. If more revenue is eventually produced than is needed to operate and maintain the system, the charge to the individual telephone user can be reduced.

The supervisors may appoint a seven-member board of commissioners with staggered terms of two to four years.

The bill provides four methods of routing calls to the proper emergency service agencies as well as other details, including the possibility of establishing an emergency back-up number in case of some failure in the system.

Among the possible problems brought up at the meeting were two questions by Board of Supervisors President A.A. Kellar, who asked about possibilities of increased liability for the county and the customers on the 798 exchange in Northern Hancock County.

Ainsworth said some increase in liability might occur, particularly regarding decisions on how to act on a 911 call.

Kellar explained that he and a number of his Beat Two constituents on the 798 exchange are located closer to emergency services based in Picaune than to those in Hancock County.

According to Ainsworth, the 911 call would be routed to the appropriate agency in Picaune, although it would be accepted by a dispatcher in Hancock County and the computer read-out would show a Hancock County address.

If the referendum passes, work on an enhanced 911 system can not begin until the county can provide the required information on addresses, which will be returned to the county for verification and correction during the implementation process.

The county—in order to comply with a recently enacted state law—is presently working to name all streets in the county and number all structures.

they consider the tracks at Waveland and Central Avenues particularly close to Elwood Bourgeois Memorial Park, a facility used largely by children.

Waveland's share under the agreement is 1.39 percent of the total cost, based on the city's population in the 1980 census.

Bay St. Louis passed the agreement "with flying colors" at a special meeting Tuesday, Mayor Victor-Frankiewicz Jr. said.

Like Hancock County, Bay St. Louis has no local railroad speed limit ordinance but has agreed to participate in the agreement. The cost share for the city is 2.61 percent.

In order to avoid high costs that would result if each of the city and county attorneys worked individually, Biloxi attorney Ron Peresich of

of a steering committee made up of the other attorneys.

With the exception of the supervisors, who handled the matter at their regular end-of-the-month meeting, the special meetings were called because the first hearing in the case had been scheduled for Thursday, July 2.

However, Federal Judge Walter Gex III granted a 90-day continuance June 25. Also in the court order was a provision allowing CSX to run its trains at 45 m.p.h. along the coast for 90 days.

The railroad suit, filed May 8, indicates that trains are presently allowed to go 50 to 60 m.p.h. in areas without local ordinances except on drawbridges, where CSX maintains a self-imposed limit of 45 m.p.h. Whether a train travels at 50 or 60 depends on the type of cars being hauled.

Award-winning play highlights evening of theatrical preaching

The award-winning play, 'A Peasant of El Salvador' will be the centerpiece of an evening of theatrical preaching on Monday beginning 7 p.m. at Annunciation Catholic Church on the Kiln-Delisle Road in Kiln. The play will be performed by the Southern Sojourners, a touring troupe of three Roman Catholic brothers, who will open their performance with a 'curtain-raiser' of song, poetry, and Scripture. No advance tickets are required. Donations will be accepted after the performance. Proceeds will go to local and regional justice and charity groups.

'A Peasant of El Salvador' tells the story of how one farmer and his family struggle to maintain their Christian lives amidst turbulent events in war-torn Central America.

Combining drama and humor, the play features mime and Latin American music. The three actors create more than 20 different characters—including the old farmer, his son, his best friends, a land reform officer, a plantation foreman and an army commander.

The Southern Sojourners are Chris Eggleton, OP; Brian Pierce, OP; and Bruce Schultz, OP—three members of the Southern Dominican Province of St. Martin de Porres who are touring 20 cities in the South this summer.

The goal of the group is to spread the Gospel through new forms of preaching as members of the Order of Preachers (OP), popularly known as the Dominicans.

This one-night-only performance is being presented with special permission from Peter Gould and Stephen Stearns, creators of the original drama which was first performed by the two actors.

The drama—which novelist Graham Greene calls "an excellent and timely play"—won the 1985 Denver Global Justice and Peace Award.

Annunciation Catholic Church where the performance will be presented is located on Kiln-Delisle Road in Kiln. Take Hwy. 90 to the flashing light. Turn east for one mile to Annunciation Circle. Turn right to the church. For further information, call (601) 255-1800.

PEASANT OF EL SALVADOR, a moving play about how one farmer and his family struggle to live their Christian lives in a war-torn country, will be presented by the Southern Sojourners at 7 p.m. Monday at Annunciation Catholic Church in Kiln. No tickets are required.

Donations will be accepted. The Brothers are, from left, Chris Eggleton, Bruce Schultz and Brian Pierce in a scene from the award-winning play which is the focal point of an evening of theatrical preaching and Gospel story-telling.

Hospital auxiliary offering emergency assistance system

Calling for help should be as simple as dialing the phone or knocking on a neighbor's door. But for many elderly or disabled persons living alone, it can be a frightening experience, especially if a fall or medical emergency makes it impossible to reach the phone.

The Hancock Medical Center Women's Auxiliary in Bay St. Louis recognizes this problem and reports they have purchased a personal emergency response system called Lifecall with home units available to individuals.

Lifecall is a personal emergency response system that works through the telephone lines. It consists of a base unit, and two wireless transmitters.

One is a small wireless pendant transmitter that can be worn around the neck, or carried in a pocket.

The hand-held transmitter is to be placed in the bathroom in case of a fall, or can be carried outside when going to the mailbox, etc. This hand-held unit has a range of 200 feet from the base unit.

Lifecall protection means never being alone. Lifecall has 24-hour a day protection, 365 days a year at the press of a button.

When a life-threatening situation occurs, whether the situation requires medical, police or fire assistance, simply press a button and immediately life-saving help is on the way. The Lifecall system notifies a professionally trained and manned emergency control center. Immediately within seconds, help is alerted and emergency personnel are on their way.

The phone automatically dials for help and the system will work even if the receiver is off the hook, or if there is a power interruption.

All vital medical and security history is stored in Lifecall's computers and, at the press of a button, all vital information appears on Lifecall's monitoring screens.

The Hancock Medical Center Women's Auxiliary is now offering this service so hundreds of older and handicapped persons can live secure, independent lives in their own homes without fear of life-threatening emergencies. For many, Lifecall can replace costly in-home nursing care.

More information about the Lifecall system and its cost is available by calling Mary Perkins, Hancock Medical Center, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 467-9081, extension 2243.

Prospects look good for 1987 soybean crop

MISSISSIPPI STATE—Farmers in Mississippi have almost completed planting the state's 1987 soybean crop and the condition of the crop remains good in most parts of the state.

According to Dr. Nathan McKinney, an agronomist with the Mississippi cooperative Extension Service, about 95 percent of the crop is planted and dry weather will allow the other 5 percent to be planted in the next few days.

"We have two crops of soybeans right now," McKinney said. "There is an early crop that was planted the first three weeks of May that looks as good as we could possibly expect. It is probably a better crop at this stage than producers have seen in four or five years."

But, some plantings were delayed by rain and the late crop of beans isn't looking quite as good.

"The late crop is small and has had a lot of water on it," the agronomist said. "But we still have excellent prospects, we just need a few dry days to let fields to dry out and get seedlings growing."

There are a few problem areas in the state's estimated 2.2 million acre crop, up 100,000 acres from earlier estimates.

McKinney said producers in the black belt prairie area south from Lee County to Noxubee County were reporting yellowing of plants.

"We are not sure at this point what is causing this problem and three weeks from now we may not even have this problem," McKinney said.

In related agriculture news, County Extension Agents throughout the state said wet weather during the week continued to stall field work.

In Scott County, Extension Agent Goodwin said rains have farmers in a bind.

"Late planted cotton is getting grassy and some producers need to complete soybean planting," Goodwin said. "We need several days of dry weather."

Lincoln County Agent Stanford Qualls said afternoon and evening thundershowers put most farm activities on hold in the county.

Qualls added that pastures are responding well to the rains but insect problems are showing up in crops, gardens and lawns.

In Hinds County, Extension Agent Willie Bullock said wet weather continued to hamper field work, but soybean producers did manage to complete planting.

North Shore Square to host antique car show

On July 10-12 North Shore Square will be hosting its first annual Antique Car Show. Several antique cars will be displayed throughout the square.

The show will be presented by the Sliedell Antique Car Club whose local chapter has been established since 1983. They are members of the Antique Automobile Club of America which currently has over 50,000 members throughout the U.S.

A few of the antique automobiles to be shown are 1932 Cadillac, 1956 Cadillac Convertible, 1926 Model T, and a 1935 Auburn Boat-tail speedster.

Diamondhead Volvo Women take tennis league championship

The Diamondhead 3.0 Volvo Women's Tennis Team recently completed a successful 1987 Spring Season by competing in the Mississippi State Volvo Championship Tournament in Jackson.

Diamondhead participated in the Gulf Coast League along with teams from Pascagoula, Long Beach, Keeler Air Force Base, Ocean Springs, Biloxi and Gulfport.

Diamondhead won the league with 11 wins and one loss.

The format of Volvo play involves five separate matches, two singles and three doubles. The team which wins three or more matches is the winner.

The Diamondhead team roster included Peggy Carter, Marise Daves, Captain Barbara Foster, Fannie Holcomb, Patty Hourin, Donna James, Pam Kidd, coach Mary McDonnell, Dootsie Murphy, Betsy Nolan, Julia Peebles, Karin Phillips, Barbara Rigby, Booney Salsbury, Ann Schatzle, Gail Schwant, and Jinky Underwood.

Twelve players made the trip, including Carter, Foster, Hourin, James, Kidd, Murphy, Nolan, Rigby, Salsbury, Schatzle, Schwant, and Underwood.

It was a new experience for all concerned. One player commented on feeling stage fright during her first match.

Some 890 Volvo players from throughout Mississippi, including different team levels and men's teams, participated in the state tourney.

The first match resulted in a loss to Jackson, the Diamondhead team then faced Brookhaven and emerged victorious, 3-2.

All the doubles teams won. Nolan and Schatzle at number one, Rigby and James at number two, and Underwood and Kidd at number three.

In the final match with Tupelo, Diamondhead lost in a close 3-2 decision. Nolan and Rigby won a tough three setter 3-6, 6-4, 7-5.

James and Murphy played near perfect at number two and won 6-1, 6-1.

Schatzle and Underwood lost a squeaker 6-4, 7-6.

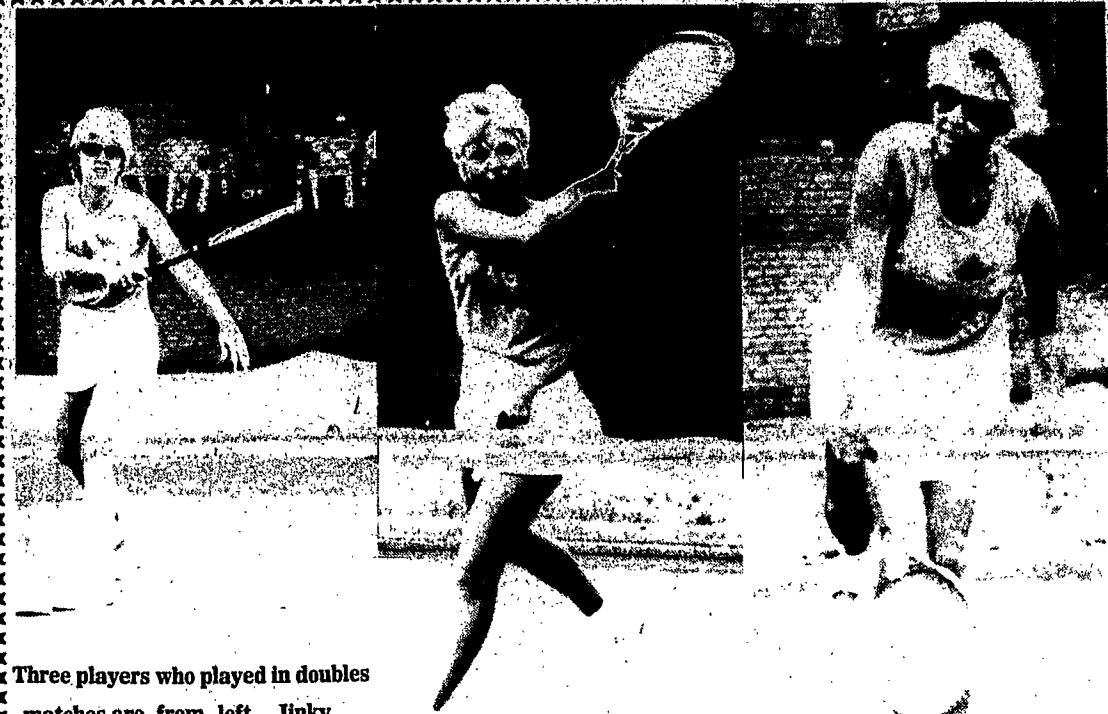

Hourin was defeated in number one singles and Carter at number two singles played her heart out losing in a three setter 6-4, 1-6, 3-6 in a match which lasted until midnight.

Many team players returned with an attitude of preparing to go to state next year and then on to Mobile for the district.

A Slidell team that Diamondhead practices against recently won state in Louisiana and is going to Mobile this year.

The feeling of the Diamondhead team was that the number of players and the playing skills were awesome to observe for the first time.

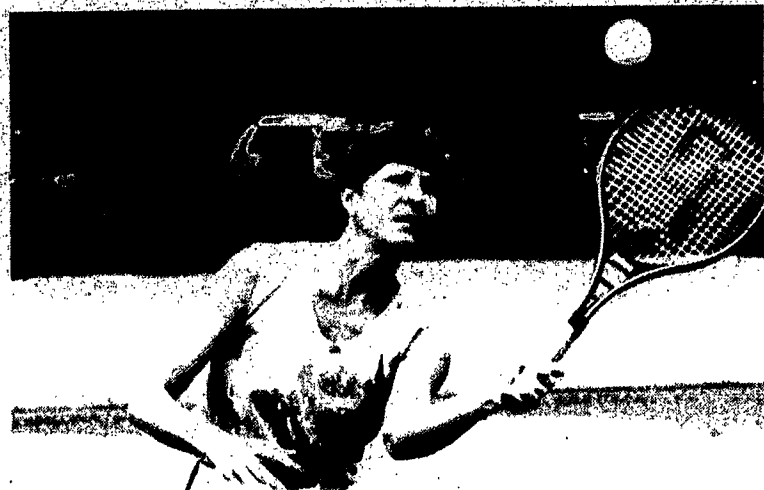

Coach McDonnell felt that there is enough interest in playing Volvo Tennis in Diamondhead that the team may be divided into two teams next year.

Three players who played in doubles matches are, from left, Jinky Underwood, Betsy Nolan and Booney Salsbury.

Barbara Foster, Diamondhead 3.0 Volvo Tennis Team captain, steps in position for a baseline, backhand ground stroke.

Donna James and Dootsie Murphy enjoyed working as doubles partners and winning matches in Jackson.

Pearl River Basin Development District reports on closing of Bogue Chitto Park

The Pearl River Basin Development District initiated the Pearl River Boatway Program in 1968. The district has constructed 17 water parks along the Pearl River and its tributaries, the Strong River and the Bogue Chitto River. The primary purpose for these parks is to provide access to the river resulting in a 400-mile long recreational boatway stretching from Neshoba County to the Gulf Coast.

All of these parks have been operated and maintained by local boards of supervisors or a municipality within the county since their construction.

The Pearl River Basin Development District does not operate or maintain any of the 17 water parks. In addition to the boat ramps which provide access to the river, the water parks include other facilities such as formal campgrounds, picnic areas, tennis courts, canoe rentals, softball fields and large pavilions for group gatherings and family reunions.

On June 23, the Pike County Board of Supervisors voted to cease operation and maintenance activities at the Bogue Chitto Water Park effective 8 a.m. on Monday, June 28.

At that time the park was closed to the public. Camping reservations and canoe rentals have been canceled and all entrances to the park are closed.

Arrangements for future management of the park are presently being worked out by the Pearl River Basin Development District. Notice will be given when these plans are completed.

The district apologizes for the inconvenience this has caused hundreds of people who have planned to camp at the Bogue Chitto Water Park or canoe on the river.

"Our purpose today is to use this opportunity to notify those individuals and groups that have planned to utilize the park during the Fourth of July holiday and the remainder of the summer.

Unfortunately, you will have to make other arrangements for camping and water-related recreation," said Mike Davis, PRBDD executive vice president.

The Pearl River Basin Development District built the Bogue Chitto Water Park and opened it to the public in 1976.

The Pike County Board of Supervisors agreed to operate and maintain the park.

"We are disappointed that the Pike County Board of Supervisors has chosen the busiest time of the year to stop its operation and maintenance of the park. The Pearl River Basin Development District has no other option at this time but to close the water park," Davis added.

"The park was built for the residents of Pike County and surrounding counties and we hope to have the park reopened as soon as possible. However, the district's board of directors must consider various alternatives and under which arrangements the park can be reopened.

In the fresh water division prizes will be awarded for the largest green trout and perch.

Karl emphasized no catfish or stingrays will be accepted.

Last year some 300 boys and girls participated in the fishing rodeo.

Fish must be caught on the day of the rodeo in any waters in the area from piers, boats, shore line or wading.

Trophies will be given for first, second, and third place in each category.

Scales will close at 5 p.m. and after the winners are announced in each category, drawings will be held from registrants for special prizes.

Karl said winners must be present for the special drawings.

Each registrant will also receive a free hot dog and coke, Sammy Perniciaro Jr., vice-president said.

Many of the prizes for the rodeo are being donated to the Sportsmen's Club by local merchants.

If any merchant has not been contacted and is interested in donating some prize, they can contact Karl at 467-2602, or Perniciaro at 467-5324.

Bay High places third in Reader's Digest Scholarship Program

The Reader's Digest Foundation recently reported Bay Senior High's entry in the Reader's Digest $500,000 "Don't Drive and Drink Challenge" as a third place winner. As a result, Bay High has earned $4,000 in college scholarship monies for deserving students who worked hard to promote sober driving.

Jennifer Cotte, Kristy Kidd, Robinette Lipscomb and Sharon Ramond were selected by an appointed committee as winners of a $250 scholarship each based on their dedicated work towards the success of the program. The remaining $3,000 of scholarship funds has been established for the next three years.

Sponsored by the Student Council, the week of February 23-27 was proclaimed "Addicted to Life Week" for the purpose of promoting an anti-drinking and driving program. The members of each class, seniors through freshmen, were responsible for promoting a different aspect of the program each day of the week, and the Student Council was responsible for putting up posters, initiating a door decorating contest, and sponsoring the film Amber Lights.

Class sponsored activities included placing announcements in church bulletins, getting merchants to place information concerning "Addicted to Life Week" on signs outside their respective businesses, handing out "Students Against Drinking and Driving" Contracts, making a calendar that presented pictures of alcohol-related accidents and statistics of death and injuries attributed to the use of drugs in our community, and the showing of the films The Party's Over and Drug Knot.

Scott D. Thomson, executive director, congratulated Frank Ladner, principal of Bay High School, and the hard-working students on their service to the community, the state and the nation in coming up with a winning program to combat teenage drinking and driving.

Peer Pressure Can Be Managed

By Ann E. Jarratt
4-H Youth Development Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

Peer pressure is being blamed today for many of the ills of society—particularly the problems of teens. Issues ranging from poor school achievement, alcohol and other drug abuse, teenage pregnancy, and suicide generally point toward kids influencing kids to do unhealthy or unlawful acts.

One teen wrote, "What should I do if someone tries and keeps trying to get me to take drugs and alcohol?"

Find a time when you are alone and can think about what's important to you and what you want from life now as well as five or 10 years from now. Make a list of the good things that could happen if you took drugs or alcohol. Make another list of the bad things that could happen if you used them.

Before you make your final decision, you should talk with someone who keeps informed about these health issues—someone who has nothing to gain personally if you use drugs or alcohol. Someone who sells illegal substances would not care about your life or health. He would want you to do the thing that would bring money into his pocket.

After getting the most accurate information available and looking at the pros and cons, decide. Decide for a certain period of time. You might decide that while you are in high school you will not use drugs or alcohol. The advantage of deciding for a period of time is that it frees you from having to make the decision over and over again each time someone asks you.

The advantage of making your decision alone after you've looked at the facts is that you're calm and free from outside pressure. When a person or a group of people is pressuring you to do something, it's impossible to make a logical decision. It's also hard because we naturally want to be accepted by our peers.

So you've decided. Then how do you say "No" to peer pressure? One way is to say "No" and keep repeating it. Don't argue. When you start to argue or give excuses, you're losing control. When you start making excuses, the group will increase the pressure because they can tell you're beginning to weaken and give in to the pressure.

Another technique for resisting pressure is to have an "off-the-wall" comeback, such as, "No thanks, I'm not into taking poison today." Or, "No thanks, I've already had my dose of pollutants for today." You think up ones that sound like something you would say.

Another teen asked, "Will I ever be accepted for the way I am?"

Look at it this way—it's very, very hard to be something you're not. You're much more able to be who and what you are.

Do a personal inventory. Take stock of your strengths and weaknesses. Capitalize on those things you like best about yourself. Look at what you consider weaknesses. Can you change any of these? If you can, then make a plan beginning right now to take regular steps to change the thing that you don't like about yourself.

Changing something about yourself can take a long time, so don't get discouraged. You may want to ask a family member to help you. Praise yourself for every sign of progress. Reward yourself for successes.

While you're working on you, don't forget to reach out to others who need acceptance from you. Our best feelings often come when we concentrate on someone else's needs.

Now, Mobile Medic and Amserv give you twice the protection for one low price.

Mobile Medic and Amserv have joined forces to give your family year-round protection anywhere on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

If you're already a member of Mobile Medic or Amserv, you now have twice as many reasons to renew your membership.

And if you're not already a member, we've given you twice as many reasons to join.

Because starting now, when you join one of our ambulance services, you automatically become a member of the other at no extra charge.

If you need an ambulance west of Debuys Road, Mobile Medic will respond. East of Debuys Road, Amserv will respond to your call.

No matter where you are in Hancock, Harrison and Jackson Counties, your family will get free emergency ambulance service any time you need it.

And all for one low annual price: Just $39.

Emergency care: free to members. . $425 to others.

A typical bill for ambulance service and emergency treatment runs around $425.

That's before you get your bills from the hospital, emergency room, or physician.

Your insurance or Medicare may only cover part of the cost. But your membership to Mobile Medic and Amserv covers your entire ambulance bill. You pay absolutely nothing.

And for an entire year, your membership covers you, your spouse, and all your unmarried children under 21 who live at home.

Why pay for service that you can get for free?

Mobile Medic and Amserv are the only ambulance services operating on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

We handle emergency medical treatment for everyone in our area, including non-members.

But while non-members pay for all treatment, supplies and ambulance service, our members pay nothing above the annual $39 membership fee for local service.

If you call us only once in eleven years, your membership will have paid for itself. That's why it's smart to join now.

You must respond by July 31st.

We can only accept memberships once a year. This year's deadline is July 31st. Over 15,000 Gulf Coast families belong to either Mobile Medic or Amserv. And now that we've joined forces, our members will begin enjoying free ambulance service in all three Gulf Coast Counties. That's twice the protection, for one low price.

So we invite you to renew your membership now. Or to sign up with us for the first time, if you're not currently a member.

Fill out the application below and send it with your check today.

Mobile Medic's service area is west of Debuys Road. Amserv's service area is east of Debuys Road. But now, when you join one, you automatically get a free membership in the other at no charge.
